Dear [REDACTED]

I am sorry that I have been unable to take any action on your application for a position with this organization until this late date. I regret that I have just learned this morning that you had departed for California.

Our personnel situation is slowly but surely crystallizing, and I think I am now in a position to offer you something if you are still interested.

I should appreciate your advising me at your earliest opportunity as to whether or not you are still interested in employment in this organization, and if so, whether you would be willing to accept an overseas assignment. If you would not be interested in going overseas, I should also like to know whether or not you would be interested in an assignment [REDACTED] California.

STATINTL

Very truly yours,
